

Difficult questions for the Global North

📌 Difficult questions for the Global North

Is this another way of the Global north imposing expensive processes on the South – are we seeing the Global South developing their own processes? We are seeing countries across South America driving extraordinary innovation, particularly in Columbia and Brazil – yet the field remains dominated by practitioners from Europe and USA – do we have to learn to integrate learning better?